Dear Dean:

Enclosed is a brief letter to Dr. Joe Jacobs who is the new head of the Office of Alternative Medicine at the National Institutes of Health.

I am entirely supportive of your efforts to be a major part of a study of laying on of hands with the NIH.

If there is anything I can do to help you, please let me know.

Sincerely,

Jordan U. Gutterman, M.D.

Dear Dr. Jacobs:

First of all let me congratulate you on your new position as head of the office of Alternative Medicine with the NIH. I am very excited about this endeavor and appreciate Senator Tom Harkin's efforts to get this started.

I am writing to support the efforts of Dean Kraft to be part of a study of the laying on of hands.

I have known Dean for a number of years when we communicated about some studies that I was conducting with Interferon. I have worked with him the last two years on a patient with prostate cancer. I have been to his office and have reviewed many of his case reports. I am impressed with his capabilities and think that any study of the laying on of hands definitely needs to call on his expertise and involvement.

I am entirely supportive of your efforts, and if there is anything I can do to help you, please contact me.

Sincerely,
